Protecting a business from hackers, illegal intrusions and attacks from the internet is a big concern, especially if you are handling sensitive data and rely heavily on your IT systems. Leaving your network without any firewall protection while on the internet, leaves many doors open to your business. Hackers and attackers can silently steal information, destroy parts of your network and even use your network to destroy other more prominent networks, hiding their own identity behind your own. A firewall offers multiple defence mechanisms to ensure your network only allows legitimate traffic in and out of the network.

Vaioni focus on security as a major service from its portfolio of services and have focused on one key solution that offers unrivalled, layered protection against the underworld of hackers and attackers. We are experts in CISCO PIX firewalls which offer a range of leading firewall products to suit all business types from your small office environment to your global enterprise. Vaioni can build your defence systems to provide a solid and secure defence shield, so you can rest assured your business is well protected from the outside world.
